Professor Schmitt's CreateAskate Program

Skateboard master craftsman Paul Schmitt recently dropped in on Traverse City, Michigan's East Junior High to team up with tech-ed teacher Scott Diment where together they've created a school curriculum and pilot program called CreateAskate. The program has students using their math and science skills to engineer and construct a skateboard deck. Classes spend two weeks designing, creating, and skating their own boards. "I was chasing the dream of what I wanted to do," Schmitt told the class. "You're empowered to do anything in life if you're willing to work hard enough for it." CreateAskate is poised to launch nationwide next year.
